The screenshot displays the Zaption website's search interface. At the top, the navigation bar includes the Zaption logo, menu items for TOURS, VIDEOS, GROUPS, and GALLERY, and buttons for PURCHASE PRO and REFER FRIENDS. A search bar is prominently featured, containing the placeholder text "Type keyword to search or enter video URL" and a red "Search" button. A red oval highlights the search bar and the text below it. The text reads: "Find a video to add to your tour" followed by "or browse your videos". Below this text is a circular icon depicting a clapperboard and a video player interface. The background shows a blurred view of the website's main content area, including a "Clips" section and a "Welcome, Hen" greeting.

The screenshot displays the Zaption web interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Zaption logo and menu items: TOURS, VIDEOS, GROUPS, and GALLERY. To the right of these are two buttons: PURCHASE PRO and REFER FRIENDS. Below the navigation bar is a toolbar with various icons for editing and publishing. A red circle highlights the 'Publish' button, which is a red rectangle with the word 'PUBLISH' in white capital letters. To the left of the 'Publish' button is a 'Saved' label and a gear icon for settings. Below the toolbar, there is a section for editing the tour title, with the text 'Click here to edit tour title'. Below this is a 'Clips' section with a video thumbnail, an 'Add Video' button, and several empty slots for additional clips.

The desktop monitor displays two windows. The left window is a video player showing a video titled "PRE NOVA: Japan's Killer Quake Part 1" featuring Tom Jordan, Director of SCEC. The right window is a question interface with the question: "How is earthquake magnitude similar to velocity magnitude?" and four multiple-choice options: A. They both measure power, B. They are exactly the same, C. Both are on a logarithmic scale, and D. They both measure direction. A note below the options says: " Nope, we need other attributes to identify direction/location."

The tablet displays a question interface on the left with the question: "What is the force pushing down?" and four options: Gravity, Normal Force, Tension, and There is no force pushing down. On the right, a video player shows a drone with green and blue arrows indicating forces.

The laptop displays a student list on the left and a question interface on the right. The student list includes names like all gone, joe Biden, dick cheney, hannibal hamlin, dan quayle, daniel tompkins, john calhoun, martin burien, john tyler, george dallas, millard fillmore, william king, john breckinridge, henry wilson, adlai stevenson, garet hobart, theodore roosevelt, charles fairbanks, james sherman, thomas marshall, calvin coolidge, charles claves, charles curtis, john garner, alban barkeley, and hubert humphrey. The question interface is the same as the one on the desktop monitor.
